Buta Festival 2015 - Azerbaijani Arts

The cultural offerings of Azerbaijan are displayed in their full glory at Buta Festival 2015

There are no dates/times listed for this event

London is turning its cultural eye to the Middle East this winter with the second Buta Festival. Focusing on Azerbaijan, the crossroads of Eastern Europe and Western Asia, Buta is a celebration of Azeri music, art, dance and culture.

For those wondering where Azerbaijan is in the world it's south of Russia but north of Iran. It is neither European, nor Asian, and is a country of diversity, rich culture and contrasts. With a newly growing capital, Baku set in direct juxtaposition to the semi-desert and Caucasus mountains, it is a fusion of traditional and modern cultures.

To illuminate this unsung cultural hotspot, Buta Festival has events and exhibitions citywide at venues including Sadler's Wells, Ronnie Scott's, Sotheby's and the Saatchi Gallery.

A highlight of the event is Alexandra Kremer-Khomassouridze's photography exhibition, Faces of Freedom at Asia House. The display shows 50 women around the world exploring the relationship between identity and the hijab.

Buta Festival 2015 of Azerbaijani Arts London runs November 2014 — March 2015.
